

Training to Teach at Princess May

LONDON
METROPOLITAN UNIVERSITY

Applications are now open!

Princess May is proud to be a Lead School for 'Schools Direct @ London Met', with a partnership of schools, and we are now recruiting trainee teachers for September 2018.

We are specialising in providing PGCE's in Primary with QTS.

Princess May has a long standing involvement and commitment to teacher training, in partnership with London Metropolitan University. Our School Direct route leads to Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) and PGCE, which carries 60 Masters Level credits. Princess May Primary School has just received a School for Success Award from the Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, which recognises exceptional schools in the capital. Princess May was recognised in the Schools for Success Awards because they have achieved results above the expected rate of progress for significant numbers of pupils, including the disadvantaged and vulnerable pupils.

London Metropolitan University has a long history of providing high quality Initial Teacher Education from its base in Holloway Road, and is a principal trainer of new teachers wishing to work in and around London. Its diverse student body reflects the multicultural contexts in which they teach. The ITE provision it offers has been rated as 'Good', by Ofsted. London Metropolitan University have devised the training programmes and will be the provider of the tuition for School Direct students.

Schools Direct @ London Met is a partnership of schools working together with London Metropolitan University to provide high-quality teacher training places. We represent schools across London, as part of an alliance of schools that provides a range of contexts in which to train the new generation of London teachers.

Our Partnership

We are proud to work in partnership with a range of primary schools in East London, as part of School Direct@LondonMet: Princess May.

Apply through UCAS to Princess May Primary School and, if successful, you will be placed either in Princess May or one of our partnership schools.

Apply

All applications for teacher training places must be completed via the UCAS website:

To apply, please go to: <http://www.ucas.com/> and search for courses under Princess May Primary School.

What can I expect?

All School Direct (tuition fee) trainees with SchoolDirect@London Met: Princess May will receive their university tuition at London Metropolitan University and will be allocated a specialist tutor. They will undergo a course leading to QTS and PGCE. Trainees will be placed in our partner schools for 120 days of the 180 day course. While based in school, trainees will have a named teacher-mentor and a weekly 'professional studies' programme. They will be visited regularly by their London Met tutor, who quality-assures the placement and observes the trainees teaching.

Princess May Schools Direct operates a recruitment 'clearing house' system, whereby we hope to offer employment to all trainees who successfully gain QTS in schools across the wider London Metropolitan University partnership.

London Metropolitan University is hosting selection events from November onwards. For further information go to the London Met website: <http://www.londonmet.ac.uk/teachertraining>
