A Message from the Headteacher

Dear parents and carers,

It has been great to welcome you all back this week and as always, children have settled back in brilliantly. Our breakfast and after-school clubs have resumed, with our lunchtime clubs following next week. We will also be resuming our range of educational visits from Monday, so it is full steam ahead for the next 4 weeks of this short half-term.

Today, your child's class teacher will provide you with this term's curriculum map, which will allow you to support with your child's learning at home. We will be following this up with a series of curriculum workshops, led by our subject leaders, which will give you some guidance on how each subject is taught at the school and what you can do specifically at home to help.

Thank you for arriving on time each morning. A reminder that we open at 8:45am, so please do join us nice and early so that your child has the best possible start to the day.

Have a great weekend.

Mr Reynolds—Headteacher

World of Work Week—29/01/2024

We will be running our World of Work week from Monday 29/01/24. As well as careers-focused learning and activities, we would welcome some parent volunteers who would be willing to come in to school to speak to the pupils about their jobs/career.

Please speak to your classroom teacher for more information.

Star Writer

Congratulations to Julie (Year 1) who is this week's star writer! Well done and keep up the good work!

PTFA (Parent Teacher and Friends Association)

Our wonderful PTFA will be planning more fundraising events for the rest of the academic year! If you would like to get involved, we are always looking for more parent volunteers!

Early Years Playground Construction

Work has started on our new Early Years Playground. We are very excited and look forward to seeing the finished playground in a few weeks!
